World Day of Prayer Scheduled

World Day of Prayer will be observed Friday, Feb. 25, at the Church on Main St. Services at 10 o'clock in this church.

The day is observed throughout the world. The day of prayer will be observed in 125 countries, prayers in identical or similar form, marking the sixtieth anniversary of the observance.

Nationally held on the first of Lent, the day falls this year on Feb. 25. Theme for the year will be "Abide With Us." Now an international event, the World Day of Prayer dates back to 1897 when a woman in Boston for a nationwide day of prayer.

The day was adopted in Canada seven years later, at the request of Christian leaders in that country. It became a world-wide service each year is written in the lives of women from a different country each year. The service is held in many churches, communities and to the service to our communities who are our understanding and appreciation of the world we live in.

Miss Mary Libby Evans, director of the World Day of Prayer, is announcing plans for the 1955 observance. She said that the sense of the service is to bring the world together in prayer and to bring the world closer together.

Red Cross Fund Drive Starts March 1

The kickoff for the annual fund drive of the American Red Cross will take place March 1. J. Cyril Glover is chairman of the drive with Wilson Webb as co-chairman.

The drive will continue throughout the month of March. Mrs. Elizabeth Weston, Executive Secretary of the local chapter, has called a meeting of all workers on the drive for Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the Courthouse.

Glover announced that the goal for the county would be announced next week, as well as the names of workers for the drive.

Remember that the American Red Cross functions at all times, in war or peace, whenever disaster strikes and help is needed.

School Trustee Election Set March 5

An election for trustees for the Bay St. Louis Municipal School District will be held in the Bay High Auditorium on March 5 between the hours of 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. This election is for the selecting of a Trustee for the full term and only qualified electors residing in the added territory, largely consisting of the old Edwardsville School District, will be eligible to vote in this election.

In case of a tie at the close of the polls at 4 p.m. another election must be held immediately to determine the winner and cannot be delayed to some other date. No absentee ballots or proxies may be used in this election.

Balls, Parades Highlight Local Mardi Gras

Ruehl, Favre Rule Ball At Convent

Mrs. Lilly Ann Ruehl and Sam Favre reigned Friday night over one of the most spectacular and beautiful carnival balls staged in Bay St. Louis.

The Little Mermaid was the theme of the Ball, and gave Mrs. Gertrude Saudier, Chairman of the decorating committee great scope for imagination in producing elaborate and breath taking effects. "Far out in the deep among the Sea People lived the loveliest Little Mermaid."

"To satisfy her longing to see the world of wonderful human beings she was permitted to rise out of the sea. At first, she became entranced by a handsome young prince who lay on the white sands of the nearby beach."

"The little Mermaid sought out the Sea Witches advice to win the charming prince."

This was the theme of which the tableaux was based. Students of St. Joseph's Academy played the roles in the tableaux. Principal characters were: Mermaid, Phyllis Buckley, Sea Witch, Nettie Monti - Prince, Alice Seaside - Princess - Dorothy Larroux. Attendants Kinta Kergosien and Patricia Poolson, Narrator - Julie Dantagnan, Gold and Silver Fish - Gold fish - Jo Mary Artiga, Sylvia Austen, Ellen Colson, Jackie Kingston, Peggy McCollier and Kathleen Seafide.

Silver fish - Linda Brezina, Connie Demoran, Lynette Dreyer, Paula Foye, Sharon Galt, and Heitmann, Elizabeth Pagano and Martha Rutherford.

Star fish - Jamie Benvenutti, Toni Breazeale, Julie Delph, Greg Garcia, Pat Murphy and Billy Schumski.

Mrs. Saudier with her committee composed of Mrs. T. A. Quigley and Mrs. J. S. Blanchard and Mrs. Bea Smith outdid themselves in the decorations.

Coral reefs, dolphins and mermaids sported around amid the glittering depths of the sea. Wondrous marine growth of all types rose from the ocean bottom and drifted downward from the ceilings. Tinted mosses created an illusion of fairylike seaweed colored lighting in soft tones, and the final touches in this magnificent scene.

Queen Lilly Ann was breathtakingly beautiful, gowned in the palest of green nylon tulle, heavily encrusted with mother-of-pearl sequins. The gown was very bouffant and was made over green satin. Her crown was fashioned in a spiked diadem effect of brilliant, and the sceptre matched the crown. He wore a necklace bracelet and earrings of brilliant in fan shape, and carried a magnificent cascade bouquet made of three perfect large white orchids, with streamers of gold and silver to which were attached white butterfly orchids. The bouquet was backed with white ostrich plumes. Her mantle was one of the most exquisite seen at a local ball.

and was loaned to her by the queen who reigned over the ball of Mystery held Wednesday night in New Orleans. It was made of gold lame cloth, lined with pale pink satin. A large border of ermine, with many ermine tails outlined the royal robe, and gold sequins were embroidered to form a pattern which outlined rosettes of brilliant to which were attached graceful pink ostrich plumes. The effect of this robe was one of sweeping grace.

Two adorable little girls, beautifully gowned were train bearers to her Highness. They were Dale Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Russell, and Hope Sewall, daughter of Mrs. Shirley Smith, Sewall. Sam Favre was a very handsome and distinguished King. His charm and graciousness to those invited to the revels endeared him to the hearts of all spectators.

Last year's king and queen were a very handsome couple, Mrs. Guy Billups, who reigned with King V. A. Leveau was beautiful and gracious as she bowed to her former subjects. She chose for the occasion the gown which she reigned in last year and carried a bouquet of pink orchid to which was attached pink lace ribbon cascading in streamers and to which pink butterfly orchids were fastened.

UN Is Theme Of PTA Parade

Her Royal Highness, Elizabeth, Queen of the United Kingdom with her consort, King Phillip, ruled over the elaborate Mardi Gras Parade and Carnival Ball Tuesday in Bay St. Louis. The parade and ball sponsored by the P.T.A. of Bay High School was one of the finest yet achieved. In spite of inclement weather the parade was able to wend its route through the town and disband at the school without a drenching.

The parade started from the Carroll Ave. side of the school at 2 p.m. Thoroughfares were opened by State Highway Patrol Cars followed by members of the City Council, the President of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, and the Sheriff's cars. The Color Guard of the American Legion was next in line, followed by troops of Cub and Boy Scouts.

Then came the horsemen led by their captain William Lizana astride his famous mare "Golden Lady."

The cute bicyclists were next in line. Music was supplied by Bay High school band.

Members of the School Board of Trustees preceded the Kings Float.

In resplendent royal regalia he rode amidst the emblems and coats of arms representing British royalty. The Royal insignia of the Lions of Richard Cour D'Leon were depicted on this float, and was followed by dukes in convertibles. First float in the parade following the king was the United States. This was beautifully executed in the Red White and Blue colors of our Flag with the Statue of Liberty in grace and white robbers holding their torches and Sam graciously acknowledging the plaudits of the spectators.

Next came Argentina with a float depicting the Argentine flag. This was followed by a business float entered by Porter's Pontiac Co. Then came Saudi Arabia, and the splendor of the far east was again depicted in costumes the desert design of the float. Bay Motors followed with another business entry, then came three trucks of the Bond Bread Co. The Youth Center followed these, then colorful Mexico. Next came another business entry from Monti-Carver Plumbing Co., followed by a small float depicting the Republic of Panama. The vineyards of France were colorful with the children dressed in the native costumes and having great baskets overflowing with the grape that makes famous the wines of France.

The Knights of Columbus followed with a scene depicting the raising of the flag on Iwo Jima. This was perfectly executed, and the five men performing the tableaux held their positions as perfectly as those seen all over America in the famous painting depicting this history making scene. There were many private entries of trucks and floats that added color and gaiety to the festive day. Favorites were tossed from riders on the many floats and from the automobiles that formed the parade, giving pleasure to adults and children alike who viewed the parade.

Following the prescribed route, the parade disbanded at Bay High School, where the Royal Monarchs with their court entered the ball room, which the gym had been transformed into. Here they led the grand march then took their seats in the royal throne chairs under a canopy of scarlet and golden draperies, embellished with a crown and blazoned with the shields of royalty. The maids and dukes made their obeisances to their majesties and took their places on the floor. Entertainment in the usual manner, of choral singing and dancers were entertainment of the court and their guests. They came the parade of the maskers. Following the selection by the judges of the best and most original maskers, general dancing was enjoyed by the young people.

The queen, Gayle Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Parker, was beautifully gowned in a beautiful dress of white lace and a touch of black and red. She was crowned with a crown of flowers.

Bay residents are asked to cooperate in a local Civil Defense alert, Ken Whitfield, local Civil Defense Director said this morning. The alert is part of a nine-state practice alert which began last night.

Bay St. Louis' part in the program will include self protection against sabotage and incendiary bombing, and at the same time organizing to assist Mobile and New Orleans in evacuation.

From 150 to 250 local Civil Defense workers will take part in the operation. The public is asked to cooperate fully to insure our own security and to give assistance to other cities.

When the red signal comes, Whitfield said, streets are to be cleared, persons are to seek shelter and remain in shelter until the all clear signal is given.

Schools are being asked to participate in teaching children not to panic, avoiding possible disaster in an emergency.

Security of bridges, clearance of the city for shelter and evacuation assistance to Mobile, New Orleans and possibly Jackson will be stressed by the alert.

Whitfield said that any aircraft seen during the alert will tip in with the problem, and said people should not be alarmed at aircraft activity.

Everyone was urged to listen for sirens—a long blast from shrill to deep tones will last from three to five minutes. This will be the first stage of the alert, and will possibly come this afternoon or tonight. The red signal for local participation will come either tonight or Friday morning.

Local Civil Defense Headquarters were notified of the Region Three nine-state alert at 9:30 last night. States participating will be North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas and outlying island possessions.

This will constitute the fourth test for the local Civil Defense, but it is the first time the public is being asked to cooperate.

All Civil Defense personnel will wear arm bands as a means of identification.

"This might mean your life," Whitfield pointed out. "Cooperation with the local Civil Defense, and the knowledge of safety measures, will mean the saving of thousands of lives in the event of enemy air attack."

CARVES SOAP AS HOBBY

By Caroline Kiefer

Miss Pat Thompson, daughter of Captain and Mrs. H. J. Thompson, Carroll Ave. residents, has come up with a very novel hobby. Recently while her father was ill in the hospital in New Orleans, Miss Thompson, a Field Director with the ARC stationed in Pascagoula, Fla. planned to come home to be with her mother for several days. Wishing to bring a little cheer to her mother, she decided to carve some statuettes from bars of ivory soap. With six bars of soap, large size, one orange wood stick and a pen knife, this talented young woman, carved six of the most delicate and attractive Christmas Angels that it has been the pleasure of this reporter to see.

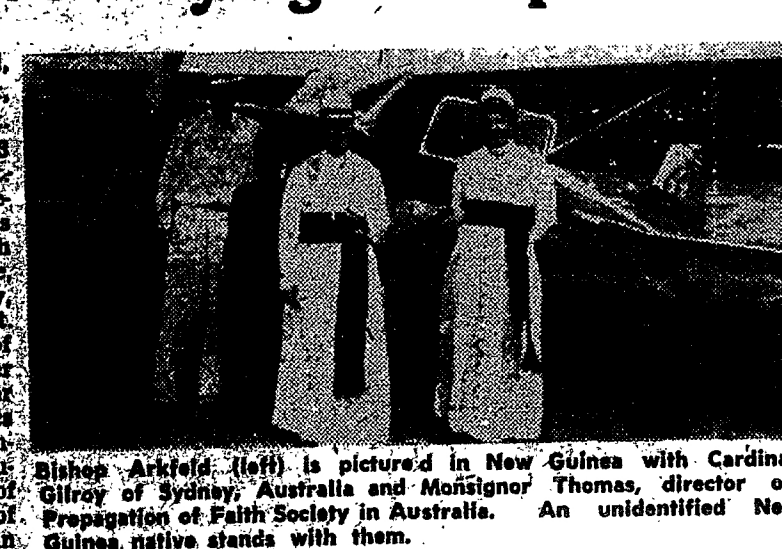

Each little figure is different, one is bringing toys to children, and is holding a teddy bear in one hand, while a doll is nursed in the other arm, another is singing the Christmas carols from a psalm book, still another is holding a taper and wreath.

The delicate features are perfect, and hair lines and robes are executed with the skill of an artist. Mrs. Thompson was so delighted with her gift, that she called and invited the Eagle reporter to view it. She had the figures arranged in circular fashion around a centerpiece holding graceful red and white berries. After we had viewed them she planned to wrap them carefully in cotton batting and place them in keeping to be brought out for a centerpiece for her dining table this Christmas.

We inquired of Mrs. Thompson approximately how long it took her daughter to do a figure and she said that in about an hour she would complete one. And a remarkable fact that was an interesting fact was that in carving all of the figures, that she carved, she used the same soap and the same carving knife. And she said that anyone could do it if they had the time. She said the hobby is an interesting one. A bar of soap, a pen knife, and a little time, and you can have a beautiful Christmas centerpiece.

New Guinea's 'Flying Bishop' Visits

Most Rev. Leo C. Arkfeld, Vicar Apostolic of Wewak, New Guinea, arrived in Bay St. Louis on Wednesday, February 23, to spend the night at the St. Joseph's Seminary. Clergy here are the tapers at the hands of the famous Bishop are: Joseph Raymond Guiry of Abbeville, George Heffner of Findlay, August Langenkamp of St. Ohio, Jerome LeDoux of St. Charles, La., William Oliver of Orleans, La., and Robert of Abbeville. with them are 11 Divine Word Missionary Brothers. These are the same as the Brothers at St. Augustine's here. In Bay St. Louis, fifteen nuns, members of the Missionary Servants of the Holy Ghost, aid in the Bishop's mission field. These nuns are the same as those staff St. Rose de Lima, the local parish on Neelase Ave.

Recently the Bishop accepted the vows of the first native nuns to make profession in a community. They were founded by him about five years ago. The community, now has the Divine Word Seminary in Techny, Ill. where graduates of St. Augustine's go each year to pursue intermediate studies. Bishop Arkfeld was born in Butte, Neb. on Feb. 4, 1912, but was taken to Panama, Iowa at the age of two. He was educated at the Court House in Bay St. Louis. "I, Joseph B. Whitehead, my wife and two sisters, Ora and Ollie Whitehead, made the following statement to Chief Dep. Sam Peterson and Constable H. G. Dean, Monday morning at the Court House in Bay St. Louis. We drove on back to Alice Mitchell's Club. I drove very slowly, and I reached in the back of my car and got my rifle. When we arrived at the club, I held the gun in my left hand and the rifle in my right hand. I thought I saw the car blocked ahead of me, so I started shooting, which I will describe as shooting it up, not aiming at any one thing in particular. After I shot a number of times I drove along and I decided to go to Pearl River and my sisters and Lamar were in favor of going. My sisters asked me if I was just scared and nervous. I was just shooting in the air. We arrived in Pearl River and

Joseph B. Whitehead, 31 year old negro of Picayune volunteered himself to H. G. Dean, constable of Beat one, upon information that a man was wanted for the murder of M. C. Acker, 26 year old negro, also of Picayune, who was killed by a shot from a rifle Sunday night in a dance hall. Whitehead, who had been out with his wife, two sisters and a child the back seat. At this time, friend, Lamar Peters, made the following statement to Chief Dep. Sam Peterson and Constable H. G. Dean, Monday morning at the Court House in Bay St. Louis. We drove on back to Alice Mitchell's Club. I drove very slowly, and I reached in the back of my car and got my rifle. I was just shooting in the air. We arrived in Pearl River and two sisters were in my car. We left there and drove to Picayune. There I went to Jake Harr's home, stayed a few minutes and talked, and then went to my home and left my wife out. A short distance from my home I stopped my car and opened the trunk and got my gun a 22 automatic rifle. It was loaded, and I put it in the back seat. At this time, my sisters Ora Whitehead and Ollie Whitehead and my friend Lamar Peters were still with me. We drove on back to Alice Mitchell's Club. I was just shooting in the air. We arrived in Pearl River and stopped at a Club, which I think is called Mr. Stewart's Club. My sisters were dancing, and I was walking around and talking to different people. Lamar Peters was dancing also. We stayed at this club about an hour or an hour and a half. Then I drove back to Picayune, after we left the club, I left off my sisters and Lamar Peters at my sister's house. Then I drove to Bogaloussa, and I stopped at a filling station for gas and then I drove to Poplarville. On my way from Bogaloussa to Poplarville, I stopped on a bridge and threw my gun in a river. In Poplarville I stopped at a filling station and got a quart of oil, and then I came back to Picayune. In Picayune I drove in the yard where I live, and my wife told me that the law was looking for me, and she told me not to try to get away. I got in my car and drove over to Jake Harr's home and he told me what had happened and Jake told me that he had seen me. I never knew I had hit a man. I was just scared and nervous. I was just shooting in the air. We arrived in Pearl River and to join more than 20,000 people from two countries in a school via television and closed-circuit television. The physicians from Canada and the United States are asked to be the largest closed-circuit television show ever.

Dr. William E. Lotterhoefer, of the Mississippi Academy of General Practice has announced that the Mississippi Medical Doctors' Association has invited to attend the viewing of the symposium, which will feature a discussion of the management of hemolytic and septicemic shock, and its complications, by some of the nation's top experts on the subject. Those desiring to attend are asked to contact Dr. Lotterhoefer for invitations by writing his office, North West or phoning 5-2521, Jackson, Mississippi. Members of the Academy of General Practice will save one hour for attending this program sponsored by the American Academy of General Practice and Wyeth Laboratories. The hour-long program will originate in CBS Television Studios in New York. In Mississippi the program will be viewed in the auditorium of television station WLBT, 215 North Jefferson Street, Jackson, 4:45 until 6 p.m., February 22.

This is to be the first international televised postgraduate medical educational program ever, with 784 cities in the two countries participating. Also, it will be the largest closed-circuit television show ever staged. A group of six distinguished physicians from this country and Canada will comprise the panel which will be moderated by Dr. W. B. Deebbrand, president of the American Academy of General Practice, from Menasha, Wisconsin.

In a joint announcement Dr. Deebbrand and Harry S. Howard, president of the Wyeth Laboratories, said that hemolytic and septicemic shock had been chosen as the symposium subject because of the widespread prevalence of acute illness caused by these infections.

This television school will be directed to the physicians of the United States and Canada on up-to-date information on latest techniques in diagnosing and treating the various micro-organisms in our bodies which cause various acute diseases affecting the kidneys, sinuses, lungs, heart and spinal cord, joints and blood," Dr. Deebbrand and Mr. Howard said.

Members of the panel of deliver scientific papers are: Dr. John D. Keith, associate professor of pediatrics at the University of Toronto and Physician-in-Charge of the Cardiac Clinic and services of Toronto Sick Children's Hospital. Dr. Keith will speak on "Complications of Streptococcal Infection."

Dr. Burtis B. Breese, assistant professor of pediatrics at the University of Rochester, will dis-ayon tulle over tulle. She wore a mantle fashioned of velvet lined with gold satin and bordered with maroon. This fell from a graceful golden collar. She wore a golden crown set with brilliants, and her scepter was fashioned of American Beauty roses and white angel plumes. The maids wore all lovely in pastel frocks of tulle and lace made on bouffant lines. They wore wristlets of flowers.

His majesty King Phillip was in full dress regalia, with the many ribbons depicting the royal orders of the United Kingdom across his breast. He also wore a golden crown and mantle.

In judging for the awards, first place went to the school float representing Saudi Arabia. This was done by the Junior Class of Bay High School. Second place was awarded to the China float with an entry of Webb School.

Organization float awards went to the Knights of Columbus for their float of the Flag Raising at Lima, with 2nd place to Charles Poolson depicting the Wilds of Africa, and impersonating a huge gorilla in a cage.

Among the horsemen No. 70 and No. 39 tied for first place. They were Rip Kennedy and Cheryl Seuzeneau.

Among the bicyclists first place went to a little boy dressed as a Chinaman and 2nd award to a Little Indian, who did not come to claim his prize.

In the general masking 1st place was awarded little Dale Russell as a Russian Girl, with 2nd award going to a Headless Horseman and 3rd to a pair representing "Buttons and Bows."

A Miss Green with a group of red and white clad clowns won the award for best masked adults. Music for dancing was supplied by Prof. LaNasa with members of the Bay High Band forming a dance orchestra.

Mrs. LaNasa was in charge of entertainment. Ball room decorations were executed by Mrs. Katherine Wilson, her son A. J. Thomas, Mrs. W. Henderson, Mrs. Paul Loup and Mrs. George Horton.

Mrs. Wilmer Thibaux and Mrs. Warren Traub were in charge of refreshments. All members of the P. T. A. and Faculty of Bay High worked extremely hard to stage this beautiful Mardi Gras for the pleasure of the entire community.

Robert Hamilton and Mark Solomon were in charge of parade line-up.

killed was dancing in the club. He was a personal friend of mine. I did not mean to hit any one. I just shot because the other man had shot and had busted my windshield. I threw the gun away because I was scared."

"I make the above confession of my own free will, without any one forcing me to say anything."

Whitehead is the father of six children. He is employed in New Orleans. Acker was married and had one child.

Both negroes lived in Picayune. Whitehead is being held in the Hancock County Jail where he is charged with murder.

On Monday, February 21 His Excellency, Archbishop William D. O'Brien, D.D. visited St. Augustine's Seminary where he addressed the community. The Archbishop who is perhaps one of the most popular Catholic prelates in this country described the work of Extension Society of which he is president. The society aids in the furthering of Catholic missions in America. To date it has helped in the erection of more than 5,000 parish and mission structures. The society is headquartered in Chicago where Archbishop O'Brien has been an Auxiliary Bishop since 1934.

Rev. Vincent Warren, S.S.J. of Daphne, Ala. who accompanied the prelate here; Rev. Erwin Bauer, S.V.D., Rev. Norbert Schuler, S.V.D., professors at the seminary; Very Rev. ARMY ADVISES STUDENTS TO STAY IN SCHOOL

With our nation's high school students in cross-currents of conflicting advice, such as "Be your own boss!" "Work in a defense plant!" "See the World!" "Take up a trade!" "Join one of the Armed Forces!" and many others, it's small wonder if they find themselves confused. Nor is it any wonder if, in this confusion, three more words of advice slip past them unnoticed. In all the advice sent their way, these three words are of most importance—Stay in school!

No doubt every high school youth has heard this phrase many times during their school career, but have you actually taken the time to consider its importance to you? The decision to stay in school or drop out is one that will affect your entire life. Now is the time to do some serious thinking about the present—and the future.

There are many reasons why young men and women abandon their best chances for a good education. A few of the common reasons are: Jobs are relatively plentiful today, even for young people with little or no experience. Wages are high, and so is the cost of living. The natural desire to earn money—and to spend it—is one of the main reasons many young men and women leave school without diplomas. Another reason—which at best is a poor excuse for quitting—is labeled "dislike of school." Translated into more truthful language, this usually means dislike of work, unwillingness to succeed in school, or believing a course for which the individual is not fitted.

Then there are some students who seem to have the notion that you don't really start living until your school days are behind you, so they put their school days behind by dropping out. Their plans for the future extend no further than their intention to make a career of "having some fun." Finally, there are overbearing young men who want to share in the job of securing our country's safety by enlisting in the Army without waiting to finish school.

The United States Army Recruiting Service, in the State of Mississippi, is happy to give you the facts. First, no one will deny that there are plenty of jobs in today's labor market, but when you go to look for one, you find that there is also plenty of competition from well-qualified applicants. This doesn't mean your chance of finding work is poor if you leave school without your diploma. It does mean that the good jobs—those with a future—usually go to the applicant who has a good education. That's the fact. Second, employment is so good that many who have completed high school are being recruited by the Army. Even for their best jobs, they're looking for young men who have finished school and are looking for work.

Third, the Army is looking for young men who have finished school and are looking for work.

Fourth, the Army is looking for young men who have finished school and are looking for work.

Fifth, the Army is looking for young men who have finished school and are looking for work.

Sixth, the Army is looking for young men who have finished school and are looking for work.

Seventh, the Army is looking for young men who have finished school and are looking for work.

Eighth, the Army is looking for young men who have finished school and are looking for work.

people who can use good English, make mathematical computations, and have other skills which require the kind of education you're getting right now in school.

For most young men of today, a period of military service is definitely part of their future and many volunteer for military duty. If you are one of the thousands of young men who are contemplating Army service, remember that a better education will greatly improve your chances in the military service, as well as make you of more service to your country. So important is education in the eyes of the Army that all Army personnel are given an encouragement to continue their schooling through attendance in off-duty classes at accredited schools where the Army will pay for all text books and 75 per cent tuition costs, or United States Armed Forces Institute (USAFI).

However, so far as getting a high school education is concerned, that's the hard way to go about it. It can and is now being done, but the quicker, surer way is to STAY IN SCHOOL.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

BY HOWARD F. SIMMONS
Hancock County Agent

Mississippi will need around 43,000,000 bushels of corn during 1955 for its own use, in addition to more corn to sell out of state.

Last year, we only produced around 27,000,000 bushels. This is 13 million bushels less than we will need. This much corn will cost our farmer $23 million. Let's grow that extra corn ourselves and make that $23 million.

Follow five steps to good corn management. 1. Plant corn on corn land. Corn grows best on deep, medium to fairly well drained bottom, terrace or low upland soils. Deep hill soils that can supply large amounts of moisture will also produce good corn.

2. Break land deeply and thoroughly. 3. Use good seed of an adapted variety. 4. Feed the crop what it needs. 5. Keep weeds out.

For more information see your county agent and get a copy of the leaflet announcing the corn production contest.

COTTON

The seed supply of recommended varieties of cotton will be adequate in Mississippi this year. The total supply will be somewhat less than that of last year and certified seed is expected to be a little shorter than non-certified seed.

Farmers should watch analysis tags for germination rate of seed. Last year's clover damaged the planting value of many seeds. Get seed that test 80 per cent germination or better. If you have your own seed, have a germination test made before planting.

POULTRY

Cheep chicks don't cheapen. Remember this slogan from last year's year before and for many of the preceding years. The slogan is just as meaningful now as it was then. You must start with good chicks to raise good flocks of poultry.

Buy your chicks close to home. Remember, shipping charges in the 1955 Mississippi Chick Buyer's Guide before buying your chicks. Get them from a recommended source.

SAVE PIGS

Using infrared lamps during and after farrowing can save hog producers an average of 3 pigs in every 5 litters. Around 5 million pigs are lost every year by chilling or being crushed by the sow.

Three-fourths of those lost are lost within 2 days after farrowing.

For more information on the infrared lamp, see the leaflet "How to Save Pigs" and the National Hog Raisers' Association.

farrowing, the lamps can be placed above a protected area of the pen where the young pigs can receive the benefit of the warmth without the danger of being crushed by the sow.

Lamps should be kept on young pigs for 3 days to 2 weeks depending on outside temperatures. The saving of one pig would more than cover the cost of using the lamp for 2 weeks.

JUNE 2 SET AS REGISTRATION DAY FOR SUMMER SESSION AT STATE COLLEGE

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (Special)—June 2 has been set as registration day for the first six-weeks term of the Mississippi State College Summer Session, according to Dean B. P. Brooks, director of the Summer School.

OIL INDUSTRY PLANS INFORMATION PROGRAM

The oil industry's public information program will reach Mississippi in Mississippi in 1955. In 1954, the program made last week by 20 leading oilmen from throughout the state.

Started eight years ago, the Mississippi oil information project enlisted 80 volunteers to do the pioneering. That number has grown to almost 700. Institute-sponsored information program in Mississippi is headed by V. E. Kelly as chairman. Kelly said service station dealers, oil producers, transporters, refiners and other workers are volunteering to 1955 to take the story of oil to every corner of Mississippi.
